The complaint further alleges that Hamilton was in an intoxicated condition and was driving in excess of 30 miles an hour and through his carelessness and negligence the collision occurred. CAMP QUARTERMASTER TAKES PROPERTY LEASES

Captain Pine of the quartermasters department of San Francisco accompanied by Mr. Dunnigan, clerk of the board of supervisors of San Francisco, was in Menlo Wednesday and had all the leases and contracts signed by the property owners at the remount station and base hospital. The property taken over for the remount station consists of the Donohoe ranch, the O'Keefe farm and the O'Connor property. Across the road from this property will be established the base hospital. The buildings are to be erected on the 72 acres of land known as the Casserly field and owned by Mr. Hoag and eight acres belonging to Mr. Gillespie. Seventy buildings are to be erected at a cost of nearly a million dollars. It is believed the structures are to be permanent in character and that the government will maintain the hospital for future contingencies. A spur track has been constructed from the Dumbarton railroad through the O'Keefe tract to the Donohoe property. All the buildings and corrals for the horses are to be erected in the O'Keefe fields facing on the bay road and the hospital for the horses is to be constructed in the O'Connor ranch. Gas and water are to be brought into the properties by the government. Ravenswood is certainly going to be a lively place in the next few weeks when horses from all portions of the northwest are to arrive. Several hundred civilians are to be employed in training and caring for them.

MANY MEN COMING TO CAMP FREMONT

The regiment of 2500 infantrymen arrived at Camp Fremont yesterday from the Philippines. They arrived in Pullman cars from San Francisco late in the afternoon, the trains being at once shunted along the side tracks at Menlo Park to the camp headquarters. The men belong to the regular army and they all looked tired and worn out after their long journey over the Pacific.

A fairly large corps of bakers arrived last night to get things ready for the coming of the regiment of regulars.

The Lindgren company transferred several hundred men working at the camp proper to the remount site to rush construction work there. It is expected that 1,200 more workmen will be needed for the base hospital and remount construction. The Lindgren company has from 1,200 to 1,500 men at work at Fremont now The contractors are having some difficulty in securing workmen. It is claimed that there is enough lumber at the remount site to build three or four cities.

Major F. D. Trask of Washington, D. C., arrived at Fremont yesterday to inspect the camp and report to headquarters concerning the feasability of building barracks here and making it a permanent camp. He refuses to give his opinion about the camp or what he thinks about the possibilities of building barracks here, but says he will have something to say before he leaves Fremont.

From private sources it was learned the camp would be made permanent. It was also learned that the government is enthusiastic concerning the climatic conditions of the camp.

It is expected that another lot of troops will arrive at the camp next week bringing the number of men at the cantonment up to 5,000.

NEW SCOPE FOR SANITARY WORK

The League of Municipalities that has been meeting all week at Santa Rosa adjourned yesterday. Trustee Carl Mable, Attorney Albert Mansfield and City Clerk W. A. Price were in attendance. The health officers of the state also met with the members of the league in annual session.

Matters of vital interest to the state were discussed by the members of the various health board which are made up of members of the medical profession. Dr. J. L. Ross, the local health officer and Dr. Smith, the county health officer were in attendance. There is a project on foot by the health board to establish a health district, to be fashioned after the system of Massachusetts, whereby one officer looks after the health of the district composed of several municipalities. He is to devote all his time to the work. It is the intention of the doctors to have legislation enacted along these lines by the next legislature so that California may be the foremost state in the union in preserving the health of its citizens.

The board of supervisors of Sonoma county entertained the doctors at a dinner at the county hospital and farm. Many of the medicos who are accustomed to dining at the St. Francis, Potter and other aristocratic hotels, sat with their brethern and partook of the same fare given the inmates of te institution. Te food served was clean, wholesome, well-cooked and palatable, fit for the most fastidious. The doctors declare that they desire nothing better and congratulate the superintendent and board of supervisors in their liberal treatment of the inmates. The farm is almost self-sustaining. Nearly all the fruit and vegetables are eaisrd by the inmates for the consumption of the institution. Chickens, hogs and cattle are also raised for the table. All in all it is a model farm, well conducted along economic lines. Numerous oter county farms could be modelled after it to the advantage of the taxpayers.

AGED COUNTY PIONEER CROSSES GREAT DIVIDE

At the ripe age of 87 years Peter Casey, a San Mateo county pioneer, passed away at the home of his daughters, Mrs. Kate A. McConvey and Mrs. F. Dinnigan, at 806 El Camino Real, San Mateo, last Monday.

Peter Casey was one of the best known men in this county having come to this section of the state at a very early date.

With his brothers, P. B., Michael and John Casey, all of whom are now dead, Peter Casey came to San Mateo county in the fifties and took a prominent part in the early growth and development of the peninsula. One of the brothers settled near what is now Byrnes' store, another went over to the coast and two others located near what is now San Mateo. Peter Casey's old home was at the Homestead and he lived there until only a few years ago when the infirmities of old age compelled him to take up his residence with his daughters.

Besides his two daughters, Casey is survived by three grandchildren, Thomas J., and Peter Dinnigan and Frances M. Wilson.

The funreal held from St. Matthew's church Wednesday morning was largely attended by all the oldtimers and friends of the deceased living in the county. Interment was in St. John's cemetery, San Mateo.

T. P. Maloney, who was made a defendant in a $5000 damage suit, by G. Bonfanta of Livermore, as a result of an automobile accident, had his trial in the superior court on Wednesday. J. Early Craig and Tom Bradley appeared as attorneys for the plaintiff, while Maloney was represented by Joseph J. Bullock. Upon being submitted the case was taken under advisement by Judge Buck.

A food sale will take place at the Alhambra theatre net Saturday, October 9th in the afternoon. The proceeds will go towards the Catholic festival. The sale will be in charge of Mrs. Joseph McAuliffe and Mrs. Jose Winter.

PALO ALTO GETS THE PUBLICITY

Ever since the establishment of Camp Fremont at Menlo Park, the press of San Francisco and Palo Alto have continually referred to its location as at Palo Alto, when as a matter of fact the entire camp is located in San Mateo county. The nearest building is over a mile and a half from the College town. It is surprising why the City of Palo Alto should continually try to purloin the advertising that naturally comes from the location of the camp on the peninsula. The San Mateo News in a leading editorial sizes up the situation as follows:

"The promotion organizations of San Mateo county should make an effort to have Menlo Park designated as the place where Camp Fremont is situated. Practically all the newspaper dispatches mention Palo Alto as the location of the encampment and the college town is getting all the publicity, although the camp is located at Menlo Park and almost the entire cantonment is in San Mateo county. It might be impossible to have the government change the official designation of Palo Alto as the Fremont postoffice, but it would not be difficult to have the San Francisco papers give Menlo Park some of the credit."

Joseph McAuliffe has handed us the following poetical effusion for publication asserting that it was the effort of a mutual friend in Utah:

AN IRISH KAISER

Whn the war is over, laddies,
Take it for me.
There will be no German submarines
A-diving through the sea.
In the fatherland is Kaiser Bill,
The guy we're going to lick,
And we'll have a brand new kaiser,
And the same will be a Mick.
We will change that song, Die Wacht am Rhein,
Into an Irish reel,
And make the Germans dance it
If so inclined we feel.
For the police force in Berlin
Will be Micks from County Clara,
When we put an Irish kaiser
In the palace over there.
Sure in every German parkway
You will find a sweet colleen,
In the fields of waving sauerkraut
We'll plant the shamrock green.
No lieberwurst or sausage
When the Dutchman drinks his suds,
But he'll get corned beef and cabbage
And some good old Irish spuds.
The heathen guns and gas bombs,
We'll throw them al away,
And make them use shillahas,
Or bricks, or Irish clay.
They'll wear no iron crosses—
Sure, it's shamrocks green they'll wear,
When we put an Irish kaier
In the palace over there.

ORIGIN OF ORDER OF RED CROSS

It is of interest to note that the Order of Red Cross nurses, for ministering to the sick and wounded, originated with a soldier 320 years ago. This was Camillus de Lellis, to whom Pope Sixtus V. granted permission to use a red cross as the distinguishing mark of the society he was forming, and which Pope Gregory XIV, confirmed in 1541.

The real origin of the badge of the Red Cross came from a dream which Camilla Compelia de Lellis, mother of Camillus, had just before he was born. In this dream she saw a child with a red cross on his breast, followed by other children with similar emblems. Camillus de Lellis through his work as a nurse and the reforms he brought about in caring for the sick, both in hospitals and on the battlefields, was eventually canonized and Pope Leo XIII., on June 22nd, 1886, announced that St. Camillus de Lellis would be the patron of nurses, whether they wore the Red Cross badge or not.

GRAND BALL FOR BASEBALL . .

One week from this Saturday night, the sixth of October, the local Sperry-Redwood City baseball team will entertain the public at an all night Grand Ball in the Foresters' hall. The dance is being widely advertised and a large crowd is expected especially from San Mateo, from which city several of the team come. The nine will act as floor managers for the big social affair and Manager Kellogg has promised that each man will make a "clean hit" with the public in keeping the Ball going and that an "overthrow" by the boys in keeping everybody on the "walk" will not be considered an "error". McGuire's and Mullen's orchestra known as "Mc. and Mullen's Melody Mechanics" will occupy the rooters bench and have promised to do the impossible in stirring up the visitors, so that they will find it hard to hold their positions. The team extends a cordial invitation to the public to witness the fun with the assurance that the coming event will show that they can score a higher average in esteem than in their past dances if such is possible.

FORUM, BAPTIST CHURCH

Mr. William Groat, of the Admiral S. S. line, San Francisco, spoke very interestingly, at the forum, Baptist church, Sunday evening, on "Applied Christianity", changing his subject slightly as announced in last week's papers. In brief he spoke as follows: There is no need of a new gospel, but we need to put more fire and enthusiasm into what we now have. A Christianity wherein the life does not compare with one's profession has no weight. We must have a Christianity in which business men have confidence. Christian character is of great value to a man in business. The speaker stated that his own conversion was brought about by a member of the Canadian Parliment, who was an earnest Christian man, taking time from his pressing duties to write him a four sheet letter, setting forth the principles of the gospel and appealing to him to give his life to Jesus Christ. He told of one of the worse criminals in San Quentin being converted by the noble character of the man who was over him in his work there.

The address was of great value, coming as it did from a deeply consecarted business man. He was asked to return at some future date and give another address, which he consented to do.

The speaker at the forum next Sunday will be Sapper W. W. Southin British recruiting officer at San Jose, who has had experience in the trenches in France.

To the Ladies of REDWOOD CITY

Our lady representative will call at your home to show you what Calumet Baking Powder will do for you and why it is called the cook's best friend.

The demonstration and test she will make are interesting and instructive. The test is not a comparative test of the strength of different baking powders because the water glass test does not show the strength of baking powder that does not contain white of egg. The test will, however, show the superiority of Calumet in other respects and prove why it has solved all baking problems in millions of homes. Calumet is not only the best leavening agent possible to make, but it is sold at a popular price and is therefore an important factor in reducing the high cost of living.

Calumet is manufactured in the largest, finest and most sanitary baking powder plant in the world, by experts who make nothing but baking powder. Calumet received the highest awards for purity and efficiency at the world's greatest pure food expositions at Chicago in 1907, and at Paris, France, in 1912. Calumet contains only such ingredients as have been officially approved by the United States Food Authorities.

Calumet is guaranteed to be Pure in the Can and Pure in the Baking. Try Calumet once at our risk. Your money back without question if it isn't the best baking powder you ever used.

THE WEEK'S EVENTS IN LOCAL CIRCLES

Redwood City as Seen Through Incidents Gathered Here and There

Clement Nash, the popular deputy clerk, has gone to his ranch at Visalia to spend his annual vacation of two weeks.

Dr. J. L. Ross and Mrs. Ross have returned from a five days' trip to Modesto where the doctor went on a business trip.

Daniel Mullen, ex-chief of the local fire department, is on an extended visit with his daughter, Mrs. E. R. Byrd of Richmond.

If you have Watch trouble see watch doctor, George Peterson, 214 Main street, Sequoia Hotel Building, Redwood City.

Mrs. John Heaney, an old pioneer of Redwood City, has removed to San Francisco to permanently reside to be near her children who are all living in the city.

David Flynn, local agent for the Ford automobile, this week sold a runabout to H. L. Williams, the butcher, and a touring car to Robert Felton, proprietor of Robert Felton's taxi service.

Miss Mabel Spence, chief deputy recorder since 1911 resigned her position during the week to accept a situation in San Francisco. Miss Spence is a clever accountant and made an efficient and capable deputy.

Louis Uhlenberg, an employe of the Pacific Gas & Electric company at San Francisco, was transferred to the local office during the week. He was made the local collector. This is a promotion for the young man. He lives here with his parents.

The card party given by the Rebekahs last Tuesday evening was a great social and financial success. The party was given for the benefit of the orphan's home at Gilroy. The tidy sum of $30 was realized for the good cause.

Mrs. Roher, wife of B. C. Roher, departed for Chicago last Sunday to be at the bedside of her mother, Mrs. Minnie Mielke, who is seriously ill. She is not expected to survive more than a few weeks. Mrs. Mielke is in her 77th year and is infirm. She has resided in the Windy City for many years.

Alex. L. Gomez of Long Beach, spent the first part of the week with his brother Faxon Gomez and his grandmother ,Mrs. John Kearse. He is a former Redwood City boy. He left for American Lake yesterday with the Los Angeles draft army, so spent these last few days in his boyhood home.

The duck season opens on October 16th. At present there is a large number of birds on the local marsh and hunters are enxiously waiting for the season to open. A storm, however, would cause them to go, as they are local birds but the rains would drive ducks from the north in larger flights.

Each Monday night during the winter months, starting this Monday night, the Red Men will play cards after each meeting. It is hoped that the interest in the game will draw a larger attendance and that the degree team will get down to buisness of doing something big in a short time with all the new blood in the local tribe.

Gus Jameson, who graduated with distinguished honors from the Christofferson Aviation school two weeks ago and since has been an assistant instructor at the institution, has been appointed by the government an instructor at the aviation school at North Island, San Diego. Mr. Jameson passed a rigid test in his recent examination for his diploma and is a skilled and daring birdman. His application was only on file for two weeks at Washington when he received notice of his appointment. Mr. Jameson is well-known and well-liked in town.

BREEZY NOTES OF THE COAST SIDE

Milton Azevedo writes to his parents here that he and his companions have been transferred from Houston, Texas, to a camp near Omaha, Nebraska. Milton says that he and his two chums from here, Knapp and Lewis are well. Personally he has suffered a little on account of a sore arm—the result of having been vaccinated. He also states that a number of the boys have already been sent to France.

Mrs. Frank F. Cunha gave a dinner at her home in honor of her husband's bitrhday and that of their little son Alvin. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Cunha, Mr. and Mrs. William Cunha, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hatch, E. E. Kerrick, and Mr Stewart of Gilroy enjoyed the treat very much.

Mrs. Mary Staniels died in San Francisco last Saturday and was buried in Holy Cross cemetery Monday morning. Deceased lived here for many years and was known under the name of Mary Campbell. She conducted a restaurant where the bakery is now located.

The Coast Side Boulevard between Colma and the Montara Mountain has been placed in excellent condition by Supervisor T. L. Hickey. We hear that that section of the Montara Mountain road in the first township is to be let by contract.

Dr. Harry Hooper, son and sisters have been spending a week camping in the Redwoods.

Mrs. Blackburn, formerly of Pesadero, but now residing in San Francisco was in town Tuesday.

Frank Simoa has given up his position as delivery clerk at the store of Francis Brothers. He has heard the call "back to the soil" and has given heed. He will try farming a while. His many friends wish him much success and prosperity. Joe Azevedo has taken Frank's place on the delivery wagon.

W. C. Wagner of San Francisco is a guest at the Wight-Dennison home at Salada Beach. Mr. Wagner is an inspector of aviation engines being built for the United States government.

PARCEL POST EXHIBIT TO BE HELD AT BIG LAND SHOW

The California Land Show, given under the auspices of the San Francisco Real Estate Board, will be held at Eighth and Market streets, San Francisco, October 13 to 28 inclusive.

Under authority from the Postmaster General, and in line with the policy of the Department to take full advantage of such opportunities, Postmaster Charles W. Fay of San Francisco will maintain a comprehensive parcel post exhibit in connection with the show.

It is proposed in this exhibition to feature the producer to consumer service which is maintained at all large post offices. This service consists of publishing each month a producers' list, containing the names and addresses of producers who are in a position to furnish farm products direct to the consumer through the medium of the parcel post service. This list is posted conspicuously at the main office and all stations of the San Francisco post office, and is distributed to a mailing list of approximately 1500 names each month.

A special Land Show edition of the list will be published on October 10th and it is the desire of Mr. Fay to make this list as complete as possible. To this end he asks the cooperation of reliable producers in San Mateo county. All who desire may have their names published in this and succeeding isits, and will be given an opportunity to exhibit samples of their product in the official parcel post exhibit, without expense to themselves, other than that involved in transporting the exhibits to San Francisco.

Mr. Fay will be pleased to furnish full particulars to any one inquiring.

DUCK HUNTING REMINISCENCES

STORY NO. 15 BY CLAUDE FOX

When "Bill" and myself started out on out next duck hunt we had two objects in view, the first of which of course was to kill as many of the web-foots as we could. We also were determined to locate the "Little Gravel Bed," where the older boys were having such fine shooting. In vain we had endeavored to obtain the information about that place from Ben Chew and Joe Leathers, but do you think they would put us wise? Not for the world. The jealously with which such secrets were guarded was none the less than that exercised by a man who had discovered a fabuously rich gold mine. To permit any one else to know where you had made a good shoot of wild ducks was considered the height of folly, and as the years went by and my first pal and I became acquainted with the marshland and the favorite haunts of wild water fowl we found that we were both drifting into that same channel of jealous secretiveness evidenced by those who had preceded us in the successful pursuit of game, and any person seeking information from us on the wild duck question was very liable to receive an answer such as I have often heard Lon Cook and P. P. Chamberlain give to the inquisitive admirerer of a beautiful basket of trout they had just returned with, when pressed for information as to where they caught them, by replying "over there".

Ben Chew and his chum Joe Leathers did volunteer the information that the "Gravel Bed" lay way out in the marsh, in a dangerous locality, where we were liable to become lost, or sink in the soft mud of the sloughs we had to cross to get there, but what cared we for danger when ducks was to be our reward, and then again we were both old enough to realize that there was no desire on their part to ever see us discover their much prized shooting grounds, which was quite natural for a duck hunter. But we were not to be denied. "Bill" had an eye so keen that I used to say nothing escaped his attention, which, coupled with the instinct of a natural born trailer, which he possessed to a marked degree, enabled us to locate that very day the sacred spot where hundreds, yes thousands of the quack-quacks had fallen victims to the marksmanship of man.

We were both upbright and early that morning and as I came down stairs father remarked that a storm was brewing and it looked like rain. My heart sank a little, for I feared it was all off with our hunt. Dad said nothing further, so I braced up courage to remark that I understood when a storm was on the ducks were flying about all the time and it was the best kind of weather to hunt in. "Sure," he replied, "I've killed hundreds of them down on the marsh at San Mateo when I was a boy on just such a day as this." That settled it and my spirits rose rapidly, for well I knew father would never deny me a pleasure which he had enjoyed himself so much, even of a few drops of rain fell. By the time breakfast was ready I was all dolled up in my hunting clothes, with rubber boots on, my pockets filled with shells and in anxiety to get away beating at every heart string.

Mother was unusually quiet at the breakfast table that morning and the cause was quite apparent. Rain was threatening and she feared I would get wet and come home with a bad cold. How many thousands of mothers have worried under similar conditions? But I want to say for the benefit of those of today that after years of experience in duck hunting I have yet to learn of a single man or boy who ever contracted a cold while hunting over salt water or wading through salt marshland. Father, however, was quite jubilant in describing how the big flocks of web-foots would come flying in from the bay when the storm was howling and the way the birds would come tumbling down when the old muzzle loaders turned loose into them, until I could almost imagine teal and widgeon feathers dropping from the dining room ceiling.

Presently there was a gentle knock at the door accompanied by the old familair whistle and "Bill" was there ready for the fray. Gulping down my coffee I fairly flew into my hunting coat, grabbed my hat and gun, bid the folks a hasty good-bye, listened to the parting admonition from mother not to get wet and come home early if it rained which I believe I promised to do, and we were off.

Now we were both somewhat familiar with the points of the compass and having watched the flashes from the guns of the hunters at night time we knew that the "Gravel Bed" lay directly eastward from where the old rail building stands and we figured that it was not more than a mile distant, so we started off in that direction. Down just below where the road now runs out to the new ship building plant the line of the mud flats turned in a large semi-circle to the southeast, which was designated by the duck hunters the big bend of the mud flats. When we reached this point we found that a high tide had covered the flats for several days previous and "Bill" soon discovered a line of tracks of me nleading across to the crinkly grass on the other side. It was evident from the numerous foot-prints that some one had ben crossing and re-crossing at this point for some time. "We are not very far from the place," said "Bill" as he continued to follow the tracks through the grass and soft marshland. At a distance of about one hundred yards from the flats he suddenly exclaimed "get down". There not over fifty yards away a bunch of teal and spoonbills climbed into the air and flying eastward settled down in the heads of Steinberger creek. "We've found it" cried "Bill" throwing his hat in the air, and sure enough we had. Just in front of us lay a little gravel bottomed creek which we easily crossed and there laying before us was the object of our quest, the much talked of "Little Gravel Bed." It was the head of a small creek leading in towards the mainland from Steinberger slough which spread out into a basin formation, nearly flat, in the center of which was a small pond or puddle at that time about ten feet in diameter fed by a spring of fresh water which oozed up through the gravel formation and furnished the attraction which drew the wild birds of the marshland. In the tules around this basin in various places were inch boards driven into the ground which the night hunters had used as backrests while awaiting the moonlight flights of the broadbills, and the place was covered with tracks of men and dogs as they had gone down to the puddle to retrieve the dead birds. While we viewed the scene, elated with having locatd the place, the tide came creeping in and soon flooded the bottom nearly up to the tules. The moon was at its full and we could see that it was another spring tide coming in by the rapidity with which it raised, and would soon be over the mud flats,so carefully noting the location we went in shoreward and drove down a stake at the edge of the mainland to guide us in the future.

Whil we had been busy in locating the place, the wind from the south was increasing, large dark clouds were scurrying northwards, and an ominous rumbling out in the bay gave abundant evidence of the approaching storm. Hundreds of plover, cerlew and snipe were flynig in shoreward and occasionally a flock of teal skimmed along the flats, flying low but hitting up a speed of sixty per hour. A few scattering drops of rain fell as the wind increased. By the time we had reached the "First Fence" the tide was creeping up toward the edge of the field and the spoonbill and teal were becoming more numerous as they winged their flight back and forth along the mud flats but none came near enough for a shot, and besides my pal and I were not as yet proficient enough in the art of wing shooting to take chances of wasting our amunition. Before we had arrived at the "Little Pond" a sight met our eyes that sent our nerves up on the high tension, for that, and the "Big Pond" just north of it, as well as the shoft grass between the two was literally alive with ducks, which at our approach raised in great clouds, flying in all directions with no particular object in view. Going out along the fence until we were opposite the "Little Pond", we squatted down behind a small blind some one had constructed against the fence. Soon the ducks were coming back and in a few minutes were leading in and up and down the mud flats so fast and thick that we did not know which ones to shoot at. About a dozen teal splashed down into the end of the pond nearest to us and I let go with one barrel but only killed a single bird. I should have had two or three of them. "Bill" done better for two spoonbill swung in and lit and he got them both at one shot. The birds were coming from every direction and then we got rattled and commenced to try our luck on the fly. Neither of us had had any experience in that line and we soon wasted ten or twelve shells without securing a single duck. The teal would come along in flocks of from two to three hundred, flying as close together as a flock of blackbirds, but we could not touch a feather. Now I know the reason. We were shooting behind them, never making any allowance for the great speed at which they were traveling. Oh if the boys of today could only have that shoot, and what wouldn't I give myself to have those flocks try the same trick on me at the present time. We finally quit wasting our shells and waited for shots on the set, and we missed a good many even then. With only one gun we would take turns in shooting. Soon we had eight birds to our credit and you can imagine haw happy we were. That was a big shoot for two kids. It was past noon and our lunch still reposed in my hunting coat pocket. The wind was now blowing half a gale and the tide was fast running out. A bunch of widgeon came along and three or four lit. It was "Bill's" turn to shoot and he killed a big drake. How we did admire that bird. A shower of rain reminded us of my promise to mother. We must stay just a short while longer. The ducks were still leading in so how could we leave for home? Along came a bunch of mallards. Oh if they would only light, but back they headed for the marsh. A single spoonbill dropped down in the grass close to us and I easily knocked him over, and then "Bill' covered himself with glory by killing three teal out of a flock of about fifty that settled in the "Little Pond". Our ammunition was nearly exhausted, but what cared we. The "Little Gravel Bed", where the big fellows shot, had been discovered and with thirteen ducks as our bag we would not have changed places with the highest officials of the state, so we wended our way homeward, which we reached just as the rain began to come down in earnest, elated not only over our success, but by reason of the fact that we would be idolized by our boy companions for weeks to come.
